

Author Gave DA Info On One Mob Hit

Last week, Gang Land overstated the case when we wrote that author Sandra Harmon was “largely” responsible for furnishing allegations to the Brooklyn District Attorney’s office that retired FBI agent R. Lindley DeVecchio was involved in four mob hits committed by gangster-informer Gregory Scarpa.

In fact, according to Harmon and law enforcement sources, she supplied information about one of the murders in question, the 1990 slaying of Patrick Porco.

The  Sun
Gang Land appears each week in The New York Sun.